

To Whom It May Concern:

I listen to several Christian radio stations throughout the country as I travel for my job. The message that these stations carries gives me great strength in each of my days and if there is a risk that this new FCC ruling could put many out of business I would be greatly saddened.

While I am certain there is some business reason behind this proposal I can't help but wonder if this is a reaction to a few ruining it for the many. The requirements you are proposing are cost prohibitive and will put many stations out of business and in the end eliminate jobs.

With all airwaves being available to the highest bidder it is interesting to me that you would require that each station be required to offer time to anyone. What would be the purpose of this? While the Constitution enforces the separation of Church & state I find it interesting that this is a forum where it's considered acceptable to enforce the state upon the church.

Please do not put this into motion. Find another way.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth Buderus